Sunday Fire Is Ruled Arson

An arson investigator working with the Murray Fire Department and the state police department has ruled an early Sunday morning fire at 1304-B Olive Street to be arson, according to Jackie Cooper, Murray Fire Chief.

Cooper said that several origins to the fire were discovered, which led to the arson ruling. The dwelling is owned by James Clayton but was unoccupied at the time of the fire, Cooper said.

The arson investigator was called out of town on another fire but the fire department and the state police are continuing the investigation, Cooper said.

Other department runs included a loading dock fire at 10:30 this morning at the Murray Division of Tappan.

Some crates received minor damage, Cooper said.

A stock room fire at 10:20 Saturday night, March 24, at Storey's Food Giant Super Market caused minor damage to a storage cooler and some produce, according to Phil Liddle, assistant manager.

Liddle added that Storey's reopened 11 a.m. today after being closed yesterday.

A fire at 3 a.m. Sunday, March 25, destroyed the Edward Thompson residence on Highway 94 East, according to a Calloway County Fire-Rescue Squad spokesman.

Cause of the blaze is not known and when the rescue squad arrived, "the fire was already through the roof," the spokesman added.

No one was in the house at the time.

FOOD MARKET FIRE — Firefighters with the Murray Fire Department donned breathing equipment before venturing inside Storey's Food Giant Saturday evening to battle a fire in a rear storeroom. The interior of the store was blanketed with smoke by the fire, which was reported shortly after 10 p.m. Saturday.

After 30 Years Of War

Treaty Signing To End Conflict

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin prepared to sign a treaty today to end 30 years of war between their countries and, they hoped, lay the cornerstone of peace in the Middle East.

The treaty they planned to sign did not come easily. The bargaining lasted until late Sunday evening as the two ancient enemies haggled over the final details of their new and fragile peace.

This morning, State Department officials said experts from the three countries were still going over the language of the treaty, although all issues had been settled in principle.

As a result, the text was not made public until after Sadat, Begin and President Carter met at the White House and sat down at a table used by Ulysses S. Grant. They planned to sign three treaty versions, in English, Hebrew and Arabic.

Egyptian officials said the final compromise involved an Israel pledge to withdraw from the Sinai oil fields seven months after the signing of the treaty, instead of nine months after, as the Israelis had wanted, or six months after, as the Egyptians proposed.

American officials confirmed that schedule and said that it represented, basically a return to an agreement tentatively struck several months ago.

Sadat arrived at the White House for the treaty signing and a conference with Carter at 11 a.m. EST. They posed for pictures and Carter told the Egyptian leader he saw "a good opportunity in the next few months to open up Egypt to American investments."

The leaders planned to celebrate the occasion with a state dinner this evening with 1,300 guests under a red and yellow tent on the South Lawn of the White House.

Begin arrived at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington a few hours later in a light rain and added a few more issues to the agenda.

He said he wanted to talk to Sadat about a three-part signing ceremony in which he and Sadat would leave Washington to sign the Arabic and Hebrew versions of the treaty in Cairo and Jerusalem. He said Sadat and Carter had agreed to this idea.

Begin also said he wanted to open the borders between Egypt and Israel 10 months after ratification of the treaties so Egyptians might visit Israel and Israelis might gaze at the Pyramids, "in which their forefathers invested some labor."

Shortly after 6 p.m., Begin arrived at the Egyptian Embassy where Sadat was staying. The two leaders conferred until 7:35 when Begin, his expression grim, got into his car and drove back to his hotel.

Stephanie Bedell Is Named Miss MSU

By DWAIN McINTOSH

Stephanie Anne Bedell of Louisville, a brown-haired, hazel-eyed junior nutrition and diet therapy major, will wear the crown as Miss Murray State University into the Miss Kentucky Pageant in June.

She was selected as the winner from among 12 semifinalists in the 10th annual Miss Murray State University Scholarship Pageant Saturday evening. Presenting her the crown was Kathy Luber, an Aviston, Ill., junior, who was Miss Murray State of 1978.

Miss Bedell, the 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Bedell, Jr., of 3216 Broeck Pointe Circle in Louisville, sang "I've Got Rhythm" as her talent presentation. The new Miss Murray State, who is 5-7 and weighs 110 pounds, was awarded a $250 scholarship, along with a trophy and other prizes.

Her title means she will carry the hopes of Murray State in the Miss Kentucky Pageant in Louisville June 21-23. The winner of the state title will compete in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

For Miss Bedell, who was sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi, her social sorority, the third time was the charm.

MISS MURRAY STATE 1979 — Stephanie Anne Bedell, a junior from Louisville, has her crown pinned on by her predecessor, Kathy Luber, after winning the 10th Miss Murray State University Scholarship Pageant Saturday night at Lovett Auditorium. Presenting the winner's trophy is Marcia Malone Bell, Lexington, Miss Kentucky 1978, while Susan Perkins, Miss America 1978, waits to congratulate her.

She was a pageant semifinalist in both 1977 and 1978.

Runnersup in the voting by a panel of three judges in the Saturday evening competition were:

Pamela Graham, Belleville, Ill., junior, first runnerup; Carolyn Mae Wathen, Henderson junior, second runnerup; Lisa Baker, Frankfort sophomore, third runnerup; and Beth Schapiro, Crystal City, Mo., sophomore, fourth runnerup.

The winner of the Mike Stallings Non-finalist Talent Award was Mary Kay

Quarles of Louisville, who did a modern dance routine. A junior physical education major, she was awarded a $50 scholarship in memory of Stallings of Owensboro, who was graduated and served as pageant director in 1975 before his death that same year.

Focused on "A Dream Come True" theme, the pageant was highlighted by COLOR GUARD CONTEST — The Murray High School color guard, 'The Light Brigade,' shown above, will sponsor a color guard contest at 7 tonight in the high school gymnasium. Guards from west Kentucky and west Tennessee will compete in the contest, sanctioned by the Mid-South Color Guard Circuit. The units will accumulate points toward an overall sweepstakes award. Admission to the contest is $1 per person, and the public is invited to attend. All proceeds will assist the 'Light Brigade' in raising money for new color guard equipment.

HEALTH

Firming up the flab

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 15-year-old male. I am 5 feet 10 and weigh 145 pounds. A year ago I went on a diet and lost 25 pounds. By most standards, I am at the right weight. The problem is my stomach and chest are still flabby — not as much as before. I would like to know if I should lose more weight and exercise or just exercise. Also, I would like to know what kinds of exercise I could do.

DEAR READER — Yes, by most tables your weight is fine. The problem is that tables provide weight in pounds and are not designed to tell whether a person is too fat or not. The only way you can tell if you are too fat or not is by how much fat there is underneath the skin. Regardless of your weight, if you have a reasonable amount of fat deposits underneath your skin, you are too fat.

At your height, weight and age, I would be reluctant to suggest that you try to diet anymore. If your abdomen and chest are flabby as you say, I would prefer to see you gradually develop a good exercise program that will help build up your muscles.

As you use calories for exercise, you may eliminate any excess body fat that you still have. At the same time, you'll be developing muscles. There will be a trade-off effect. The end result might be that your weight would be about the same but more of your body would be muscle and you would have less fat.

You should use exercises that involve using the chest muscles and the abdomen since that seems to be your greatest concern.

You might also take a good look at your legs and see if you have enough muscles in those. It sounds to me like you need a generalized calisthenic program that includes sit ups, push ups, leg lifts and perhaps exercises for your legs and arms.

Talk to your physical education teacher and see what facilities are available to you that you might be able to use. A number of school gymnasiums have exercise equipment that's really quite good in developing muscle strength. This way you can use exercises that contract the muscles over the front of your chest and develop the muscles between your shoulders for good posture as well.

Then, of course, to maintain your improved fitness you need to develop some exercise hobbies that you like. If you don't like them, you probably won't stay with them. If you're interested in tennis, you might try to develop some skill in that. Swimming is an excellent exercise and if you don't know how to swim, you ought to learn anyway.

Jogging is wonderful to develop the heart and vascular system and, for that matter, the endurance of the leg. It will not do the things you are interested in for your appearance in terms of your chest and abdomen.

What about those stories about people dropping dead when jogging? People who have heart disease die in bed, in cars and wherever they happen to be and while doing an unending list of things. The ones who get in trouble are usually those who overdo it and try to beat the clock. You won't have this problem at your age.

JOGGERS AND THOSE who are concerned about the problem can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 4-2, Jogging, Exertion and Sudden Death. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Rogers' Home Scene Of Xi Alpha Phi Chapter Meeting

The home of Linda Rogers was the scene of the recent meeting held by Xi Alpha Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. "Our Shrinking World" was the subject of the program presented by Mrs. Rogers.

Reports were given by Linda Fain, secretary, Dortha Stubblefield, treasurer, and other committee chairmen.

The members chose "Original Programs" for the 1979-1980 meetings.

Other members present were Joretta Randolph, Dorothy Barrow, Beverly Galloway, Edna Vaughn, and Rita Burton.

Golden Anniversary Celebration Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Eunice Williams

Mr. and Mrs. Eunice Williams of Hazel Route 2 will be honored on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, April 1, at the Community Room of the Dees Bank of Hazel.

All relatives and friends are invited to call between the hours of 2 to 4 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married March 31, 1924, by Bro. Robert L. Hart at Providence. Mrs. Williams, the former Mabelle Mitchell, is the daughter of the late Elmus Mitchell and Louisa Witherspoon Mitchell. Mr. Williams is the son of the late Charlie Williams and Rhoda Hutson Williams.

They have two daughters, Mrs. Danny (Margaret) Gallimore, Route 1, Puryear, Tenn., and Mrs. James (Eron) Lowrie, Peoria, Ill. Their five grandchildren are Patty and Rodney Gallimore, Pam Stone, Peggy Haschina, and Towana Lowrie. Their two great grandchildren are Crystal and Darvell Stone.

Celebration Of Fifteenth Birthday Of PEO Held Here

A birthday cake decorated in yellow and white with marguerites, the colors and flower of the organization, marked the fifteenth birthday of Chapter M of the P.E.O. Sisterhood which was celebrated on Saturday, March 17, in the home of Mrs. Olga Freeman in Hazel, with Mrs. Robert Bryan of Puryear, Tenn. as assisting hostess.

Chapter M was organized on March 20, 1964 in the home of Mrs. Ralph Woods, Oakhurst, on campus. Of the seventeen charter members, only four were able to be present for the event, four being out of town; one is non-resident and one deceased; one has become inactive and five have transferred membership to other chapters. Five years after the organization of the local Chapter, it fostered the growth of Chapter P in Paducah and transferred several members to that group.

For the birthday luncheon the tables were spread with lace cloths and a profusion of jonquils, pussywillows and white iris decorated the entertaining rooms. The invocation was given by Miss Ann Herron.

Mrs. A. C. La Follette, president, presided over the business session and appointed committees for the coming year. Devotions were led by Mrs. Henry McKenzie who read from the book of Ecclesiasticus in the Apocrypha. Mrs. Larrie Clark was installed as guard. The next meeting of the Chapter will be in the home of Mrs. McKenzie, with Mrs. Clark as co-hostess.

Other members present for Saturday's meeting were Dr. Joan Maupin and Mesdames N.T. Beal, George Hart, John C. Quertemous, Paul Sturm, James Parker, L.J. Horton, and F.A. Stubblefield.

Mrs. La Follette presented the program outlining the history of Chinese civilization from legendary times up to the dynasty periods beginning about 2000 B.C. She stated that this oldest civilization is the product of its sum of yesterdays, and that the first known recorded book dates back to 1150 B.C.

With developing civilization three great thinkers, Confucius, Lao-Tse, and Buddha exercised great influence on the Chinese people from about 500 years before the time of Christ. Mrs. La Follette sketched the succession of Dynastic periods with their fluctuating periods of progress and development alternating between periods of over-population, flood, and starvation.

She stressed the independent spirit of the Chinese people and their immunity from outside influences, also their great artistic development with painting and poetry. In the fourteenth century the famous Ming Dynasty also fostered carving, enameling and tapestry weaving.

Throughout the centuries, covering more than four thousand years, the periods of famine and war continued to alternate with those of peace and the growth of civilization, but by the nineteenth century China suffered shame and humiliation for lack of industrial and scientific progress. Current interest in modern China causes reflection on its long years of isolation, its present needs and future possibilities, the program leader said.

Terri Burke Gives Program At Sigma Department Meet

Approximately 25 members of the Sigma Department of the Murray Woman's Club were shown the art of making Italian pasta by Terri Burke at the meeting held March 12 at the club house.

Mrs. Burke prepared Fettucine All' Alfredo and invited members to sample the finished product.

The hostesses—Brenda Marquardt, Betty Gore, Dean Poston, and Julie Smith—provided drinks and hot sourdough bread to accompany Mrs. Burke's entree. During the business session conducted by Judy Muehleman, members voted to change the next meeting date to the first Monday on April 2 because of the local school's spring vacation schedules.

Mrs. Muehleman appointed Sharon Wells, Julie Smith, and Norma Frank to serve on the nominating committee for the 1979-80 officers.

Members were asked to save cancelled postage stamps with the proceeds to be used by the Murray Woman's Club to make a donation to CARE. It was announced that the general club netted over $700 on its holiday sale of cook-books.

Market House Theatre Plans Civil War Play

A cast of 30 people has been assembled to perform in the world-premiere Civil War Epic, "The Middle Ground," opening at the Market House Theatre, Paducah, in mid-April. Students from area schools and the Children's Theatre Workshop, doctors and local businessmen will join Market House regulars under the direction of playwright, Ben Bradford.

The play revolves around a Kentucky farm family, the Floyds. The Floyd household is headed by the mother, Ophelia Oliver, and Mary Margaret Hoffman, who plays the sister of Mrs. Floyd's long-dead husband. Richard Calvert, Cammie Greenfield, and Paul Sargent will perform as the family's older children.

Robbie Robertson will create the role of 8-year-old Marion Francis with John Stewart as Marion Francis grown up. Historic politicians and generals and those around them will be portrayed by Dr. Denny Noonan, Dr. Brad Mutchler, Nat Baskin, Suzi Miller, and Phillip Smith. The Union Army includes Garry Massa, Jimmy Miller, Mark Strittmatter, and Charles Cope, while Stuart Dyer, Wayne Gage, Mike Harris, and Don Maley serve as Confederate soldiers. Jim Reese, Debbie Harned, Kris Kinahan, Rick Wright, and Kathi Riley around out the capable cast.

Dr. Bradford has announced that "The Middle Ground" will play to its first audience at a champagne benefit premiere on Saturday night, April 14. The production will continue in a special twilight performance for senior citizens and students on Monday, April 16 at 7 p.m. Showings at 8:15 will commence with the formal opening night on Tuesday and run through Saturday, April 21.

Tickets for the gala benefit premiere are $7.00; $5.00 prices for opening night include wine and cheese reception preceding the show and $3.50 and $3.00 seats are available for all other showings. He Wants To Be A Coddled Yegg

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: TV reporters recently visited a federal prison in Allenwood, Pa., where there are no bars, fences or cells. The inmates — including some Watergaters — enjoy their dormitory-styled rooms and tennis and handball courts in a country club setting.

They even have low-calorie meals for those who want to lose weight!

I'm a psychology professor, and aside from a few minor traffic violations, I've had no experience with crime.

My question, Dear Abby: How can I get from six months to a year in Allenwood?

NEEDS A VACATION

DEAR NEEDS: I can't tell you how to get into Allenwood, but if that tongue in your cheek had ever tasted a loss of personal freedom, you wouldn't wish prison (even Allenwood) on your worst enemy.

After checking it out, I learned that most inmates of Allenwood had been transferred there as a reward for good behavior after having served part of their sentence in other federal prisons. Their crimes are usually non-violent, such as fraud, tax evasion, embezzlement, forgery, etc.

Prisoners must work in food services, laundry or on the prison's 2,000-acre farm. Exercise facilities are available after work to encourage physical fitness.

It's true that there are no bars or fences, but very few inmates attempt escape. If they do, their sentences are extended, and they've learned that the loss of one's personal freedom is one of the most devastating experiences a free man can endure. Ask anyone who's ever served time.

DEAR ABBY: I enjoyed the exchanges in your column in which women were compared with cars — new models vs. the antiques.

May I submit that an older woman is like a treasured volume filled with shared history, rich with human experience, overflowing with responsiveness and understanding, abundant with wisdom and a saga of suffering surmounted. It is a story which grows dearer with every reading, to which equally-loved pages are added every day.

If a man is lucky enough to possess such a masterpiece, who would trade it for a pretty cover and a bunch of blank pages?

CONSTANCE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR CONSTANCE: Possibly a man who doesn't want to read about history, but prefers to write his own.

DEAR ABBY: My friend and I are having an argument. It all started when a mutual friend had a baby boy. The mother is white and the father is black. The baby's skin is a light as the mother's.

My friend says if the boy grows up and marries a white girl, because of his black genes they could have a black baby. Also, she says that in generations to come, even if they all marry whites, a coal-black baby could suddenly appear.

Can you straighten me out on this?

PROVING A POINT

DEAR PROVING: A child can be no darker than the darker parent.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Some Code Of Conduct

Like a thief in the night, the U.S. Senate has quietly reneged on its two-year-old pledge to place certain limits on outside income from honorariums and business activities.

The pledge was a trade-off with President Carter who, in turn, granted senators a payraise of $12,900 — bringing annual wages to the grand total of $57,500.

Senate members said they couldn't live on less than $73,875. Their wives would have to work. Their children would have to get paper routes, forego college. The public displayed little in the way of sympathy.

After only a short discussion and without a roll-call vote to show where they stand, senators on March 8 gutted their code of conduct so they are able to earn an extra $16,375 each year.

The action can be described as "take the money and run." It took less than 24 hours and was done without committee consideration or advance public notice.

What the senators did was to put off for four years, and probably permanently, the limit of $8,625 annually that they may earn from honorariums. The limit was advocated as a way to avoid conflicts of interest and business activities and incursions on senators' full-time public duties.

When shooting for the pay raise, the Senate held long, pious debates about the ethics of such outside income. Ethics now, it seems, are out the window.

Fred Wertheimer, a Common Cause vice president, described the action as a "rare combination of greed and cowardice."

It also seemed to show that the good senators have no interest in being personally involved in wage and price restraints the American people have been asked to accept.

Strange Bedfellows

FRANKFORT — The old saying that politics makes strange bedfellows is proving so true in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Agriculture Commissioner Thomas O. Harris was announced last week as the campaign chairman for Terry McBrayer who is considered as Gov. Julian Carroll's choice to carry the party banner in November.

Harris won his office almost four years ago although he was bitterly opposed by Gov. Carroll and his organization of which McBrayer was a vital part.

Harris was anti-Carroll four years ago. Carroll and his forces were supporting Beverly Yeiser of Winchester. Harris squeaked through by a very narrow margin as the count and recount seceded.

Harris was a strong supporter of Gov. Wendell H. Ford for governor and supported him in Ford's race for the U.S. Senate. Carroll was lieutenant governor under Ford and their relations were cool to say the least during that time. The Ford-Carroll atmosphere remained cool until Ford was elected to the Senate and Carroll took over as governor.

It continued in this condition when Carroll was running for governor, and it showed when Carroll opposed Harris in his race for agriculture commissioner.

The announcement last week that Harris would be McBrayer's campaign chairman is probably the biggest plus sign for a candidate in the Democratic primary.

Harris' record as agriculture commissioner has won acclaim from the agri-business in Kentucky. He has many friends among the farmers and also had a good reputation as a state senator. He left the Senate office to become commissioner of Agriculture and Natural Resources after Gov. Ford reorganized state government.

This was generally conceded to be a reward for Harris' efforts in Ford's campaign for governor. Harris proved his worth in that race, and now McBrayer may have achieved some sort of a political coup in winning Harris over to head up his campaign.

The Democratic gubernatorial picture is so muddled with a large number of candidates that political observers have been at a loss trying to establish a leader at this stage. The Harris announcement is the biggest change in months.

Harris also laid up some Brownie points with coal operators when he was commissioner of Natural Resources for this department has the job of policing the coal industry, particularly strip mining. Harris was there in the early days of getting strip mine laws interpreted into regulations before the

The Story Of Calloway County

1822-1976 By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

COMPASSIONATE PEOPLE IN CRISIS

Similar to other societies whereby families are closely entwined in the struggle for existence, natives of Calloway were a compassionate, understanding, sharing people when faced with crisis. One of their nobler traits was the sitting up with the sick, keeping the death watch and the burial of the dead. Although the sharing of family problems yet exists in remote parts of the county, the far greater task now lies with hospitals, nurses, and mortuaries. Man's expectancy in life was about 34 years upon birth at the turn of the century. He was beset by devastating diseases for which there were no known cure at the time. Among which were smallpox, diphtheria, pellagra, typhoid fever, consumption and malarial fever. Seldom did a family fail to be visited by the illnesses, consequently there would be long intervals for the bedfast. Upon these occasions, every neighbor, be he well to do or the most humble, but who would offer his services to "sit" with the sick throughout the night. No storm, nor heat would shake his willingness to be of comfort and assistance to those in need of attention, even if that neighbor were a man to whom he would not speak in health. Therefore, no family went without nursing care despite the antiqueness of medication and crudeness of ministrations for there were no other known ways for the time.

The fellow feeling of neighbors was not limited to the sick, tormented or dying, the same humanitarianism extended to those who failed to survive. Neighbors would excavate the plot for the final resting place, attend the funeral services, and assist in filling back the earth, performed in a ritual of each man taking his turn with the shovel without a word being spoken as if a silent commander were executing the orders and mute women were at the helm. It was a magnificent display of the milk of human kindness flowing at high tide.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I have been drawing my Social Security benefits for over two years now. I have arthritis and it is hard for me to get out to do my shopping, so I do a lot of purchasing by mail. I have never had any problems with any company that I have dealt with, but it will come some day. Are there any laws to protect people who order by mail or do you have any tips for us? — C.D.

Ordering merchandise through the mail can be great because it is very convenient and in some cases can save you money. Since you have never had a problem you are very lucky. Trying to straighten out a problem with a mail-order company can be very costly and time consuming. However, the Federal Trade Commission has a rule that gives you some rights when you shop by mail.

First, you have the right to know when you can expect your merchandise to be shipped. If an ad or brochure says that the manufacturer will "rush" your item to you in less than one week, the manufacturer must do this. If no date has been set, you have the right to have your merchandise shipped within 30 days.

You have the right to cancel your order. If the seller can't ship the merchandise to you in the stated time or within 30 days, he must give you the chance to cancel your order and get all your money back. The seller must notify you of a delay and give you a free means to reply (for example, a postage-paid postcard). If the shipping delay is 30 days or less, you have the right to cancel the order and get your money back, the right to agree to the new shipping date or the right not to answer. If you don't answer, the seller can assume you agree to the shipping delay. If the shipping delay is more than 30 days, you must give your express consent to the delay. Otherwise, the seller must return your money at the end of the first 30 days of the delay.

You have the right to get all your money back if you cancel. The seller must mail your refund to you within seven business days after you cancel your purchase. Where there is a credit sale, the seller has one billing cycle to adjust your account. The rule does not apply to services such as mail-order photo finishing, magazine subscriptions and other serial deliveries except for the initial shipment, mail-order seeds or growing plants, collect-on-delivery orders, credit orders where the buyer's account is not charged prior to shipment for merchandise and sales under "negative option" plans such as book clubs where you must notify the seller of your intent not to purchase.

If you receive merchandise through the mail which you did not order, federal law says you may consider it a gift and keep it without paying for it. There are only two kinds of merchandise that can be legally sent through the mail without a person's consent: free samples which are clearly marked as such and merchandise mailed by charitable organizations asking for contributions. In all other instances, it is illegal for a manufacturer to send you merchandise through the mail unless you have previously requested it.

Here are Heartline's tips for mail-order shopping:

1. Never send cash through the mail. Always use a check or money order so you can have a record of when you sent your order and when the company received it.
2. Make sure there is a guaranteed delivery date. If you are ordering for a special date, you want to make sure the item is received on time.
3. Find out the company's policy on returns. If it is not mentioned in the ad, write the company first and ask what it is.
4. Beware of exaggerated claims on the product or price. Look the ad over carefully. If it seems too good to be true, it probably is.
5. Check out the company. If you do not know anything about the company, do not hesitate to check it out with a Better Business Bureau.
6. Keep a record on your order. Make sure you also keep the name and address of the company with which you are dealing.
7. Do not rely solely on the picture. Note the description, size, weight, color and content. Be sure to include this along with the order number.
8. If you will not accept a substitute, indicate this on your order.
9. Make sure you give the company complete information. Be explicit. Make sure you include all information about your order.
10. Be sure to enclose shipping, handling and tax charges with your order.

Letter To The Editor

Entertained

Dear Editor:

For the last hour and a half I was thoroughly entertained by Mrs. Peggy Shelton's 6th grade language arts class at Murray Middle School. The students planned, wrote, directed and performed a program on communications for the other 5th and 6th graders and their teachers and parents.

The arts included dancing, singing, sound effects, puppets, mimes, skits and many other activities dealing with verbal and non-verbal communications. The whole program was refreshing, entertaining, educational and creative.

I want to publicly compliment Mrs. Shelton and her class for their innovative programs and for the talented boys and girls who participated. With young people like them I'm encouraged that the future of Murray, Kentucky, can be nothing but positive.

Yours truly,
Peggy Brown

Specialist Advises Homeowners On Landscape Damage

A University of Kentucky Extension specialist in home horticulture advises homeowners to check landscape plants for winter damage, and to give injured plants prompt attention in order to save them.

Mary Hotze has several suggestions for repairing winter-damaged plants:

Where winter heaving has occurred, push the plants back into the ground to prevent further root damage.

If snow and ice have split off branches, prune the remaining stub to the ground or to a lateral bud on the branch. Hotze says that a 45-degree cut one-fourth to one-half inch above the bud encourages the bud to open into new growth and keeps the area drier than if a flat cut is made.

For plants with an extensive amount of bark ripped, clean the wounded area of jagged edges with a sharp knife. A smooth, clean elliptically-shaped wound will heal faster than a rough, jagged wound.

When a lot of repair work has to be done, it is not necessary to paint the wounded area, says Hotze. But she points out that if you feel better about applying a wound dressing, use orange shellac. Avoid using asphalt-base paints, the specialist advises.

Never prune a tree to stubs or top it, says Hotze. Her advice: "If so much damage is done to your trees and bushes that repairs cannot be made and still keep an attractive shape, cut the plants off at the ground level and start over again."

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C.

The U.S. tobacco industry can be traced to Jamestown, Va., where John Rolfe planted seeds imported from Trinidad and Caracas to test the Virginia soil. Rolfe's first shipment of leaf to England in 1613 and its subsequent acceptance by the British laid the foundation for an industry that helped to give America its rich agricultural heritage. Virginia, Maryland and the Carolinas combined to export an average of 100 million pounds of leaf annually by the end of the colonial period.

TRIPP FURCHES, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thruston Furches of Murray Route 7, has been selected as member of the month for March by the Calloway County Chapter of Future Farmers of America. Tripp was selected as a result of winning the chapter and regional FFA Soybean Production Contest, placing in the top four in the chapter FFA Quiz Contest, tying for first place in the Chapter American Institute of Cooperatives contest, and being selected as a Regional FFA Officer Candidate. He is a junior at CCHS and is serving as FFA Supervised Agricultural Occupations committee chairman.

Six Pointers For Top Corn Yield

Corn growing decisions made before pulling your planter into the field this spring will set the stage for the yield you will harvest next fall.

Despite the uncertainties of weather during the growing season and of price after the crop is harvested, an agronomist says that what you can do to get a high yield is the key to profit.

Morris J. Bitzer, Extension grain specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, offers six pointers for getting top corn yields:

1. Crop rotations — Corn yields more when land is in a corn-soybean rotation, compared with continuous corn; and corn yields are higher the first year following a good sod cover. When renovating old pasture or hay fields, the agronomist recommends a cropping rotation of corn, small grains and red clover; growing no-till corn on the steeper slopes.

2. Nitrogen fertilizer — "You can't get top corn yields without plenty of nitrogen,"

Bitzer emphasizes, adding that nitrogen rates should be based on the previous crop, soil drainage and tillage system.

Soils that are moderately or poorly drained require 50 to 100 lbs. more nitrogen per acre than well-drained soils. On poorly drained soils, consider waiting until corn is knee-high to apply at least two-thirds of your total nitrogen. By delaying most of your nitrogen application on these wet soils, you can use 35 lbs. less nitrogen per acre and still get top yields, according to Bitzer.

3. High-yielding hybrids — Production costs are the same whether you plant a low-yielding hybrid, reminds the agronomist. Plant most of your acreage with full-season hybrids that have proved to be top yielders.

4. Early planting — You get higher yields and have fewer insect and disease problems, compared with late planting. Bitzer recommends this guideline: Wait for your earliest planting until the soil temperature is above 50 degrees and warming, keeping in mind that no-till fields warm up slower than tilled fields. But start early enough to finish planting before May 10 to May 20 from western to eastern Kentucky.

"There is a 1 per cent reduction in yield for each day planting is delayed past May 15 in Kentucky," says Bitzer.

5. Planting rates — A poor or inadequate stand is one of the most limiting factors in getting top corn yields, according to the agronomist. No-tillage corn with slightly higher plant populations has yielded more than conventionally planted corn in research comparisons at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

For top yields and highest net returns, Bitzer recommends these planting rates, regardless of row width: conventional tillage, 18-22,000 kernels per acre; no-till, 20-26,000 kernels per acre; corn for silage, 20-28,000 kernels per acre.

"You can't expect a top yield if final stand is less than 16,000 plants per acre," he says, adding this caution: "Populations higher than recommended often result in barren stalks, more stalk rot, increased lodging, lower grain quality and lower yield."

The agronomist recommends keeping a close watch on planting depth to get good emergence and an even stand. Seed should be adequately covered and in contact with moist soil but not buried too deep.

6. Pest control — Weeds and insects are yield-cutters. Use recommended herbicides and insecticides according to directions on product labels. Bitzer points out that a systemic insecticide can be applied to protect the crop from both soil and foliar insects.

Dairy Herd Program Doing Excellent

Kentucky dairymen enrolled in the Dairy Herd Improvement program are doing an "excellent job" of selecting bulls to increase milk production in their herds, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report.

Bulls available through artificial insemination are rated according to the value of the increase in production that can be expected from their daughters — predicted difference dollars (PD$).

Kentucky Guernseys on test calving ranked sixth among all states from 1973 to 1977 with an average PD$ of plus $22. Holsteins in the state ranked tenth nationally, averaging plus $24; and Jerseys fourteenth with an average of plus $31.

"The figures show one reason that dairymen on DHI test are increasing their herd average production," says Ken Olson, Extension dairy specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "As more dairymen take advantage of superior bulls available through artificial insemination, average production will increase more rapidly in Kentucky."

The specialist urges Kentucky dairymen to continually raise their sire selection goals in order to make as much progress as possible in improving their herds. Olson reports that breeders currently have 237 AI bulls available with PD$ of 100 or more, including 182 Holstein, 30 Jersey, 10 Guernsey, 10 Brown Swiss, 3 Milking Shorthorn and 2 Ayrshire.

Magnesium Supplement Prevents Grass Tetany

This is the time of year when an otherwise healthy cow can be dead within a few hours. The culprit is grass tetany, a disorder that usually affects cattle from early March until mid-April.

Grass tetany is caused by a low level of magnesium in the blood.

Duane Miksch, an Extension veterinarian at the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture Princeton substation, reminds cattlemen that magnesium supplements are necessary to protect grazing cattle from grass tetany.

"Watch supplements to make sure you don't run out," advises Miksch. He notes that a couple of days without the supplement could prove fatal.

Grass tetany usually appears in late winter and early spring when low temperatures mean little water is evaporating from the soil. This upsets the oxygen balance, preventing the uptake of magnesium by plants.

"Most good producers have experienced grass tetany in the past and recognize the need for supplement with magnesium since cows don't seem to store magnesium in the body," says Miksch.

Grass tetany quickly leads to the death of an animal that is not treated. Symptoms of the disorder include excitement in an otherwise calm animal; lack of coordination; severe twitching, grinding of teeth and frequent urination.

Convulsions usually follow early symptoms, and coma and death occur if an animal is not treated, says Miksch.

Amoco Premier
A Premium Quality No. 2-D Diesel Fuel — Fast starting, clean burning, full power when you need it most!

If you run diesel trucks or farm equipment...Premier is the fuel you've been looking for. Here's why:

We know that days — even hours — of equipment downtime cost you money. So we've developed a top-quality fuel that will help keep your operating dollars from literally going up in smoke.

And you get full power right from the start because Premier has a high cetane for faster cold weather starting — up to 10 cetane numbers higher than required for a No. 2-D diesel fuel.

Amoco Premier is a true No. 2-D fuel. Even though Premier has the clean-burning and fast-starting characteristics of the lighter No. 1-D fuels, Premier is a No. 2-D fuel. It provides superior lubrication for pump and injector systems through controlled viscosity. In fact, the minimum manufacturing viscosity of Amoco Premier is higher than that of No. 2 furnace oil.

Full lubricating protection plus power to burn!

Amoco uses high-quality stocks and an effective additive package to assure that Premier is a clean-burning premium fuel.

Make sure you have an Amoco Farm Fuels "Final Filter" to keep it that way.

Power, protection...and Amoco's exclusive D-GUARD ashless additive package — that's what makes Amoco Premier the premium diesel fuel.

Modern diesel engines have extremely close tolerances — even a tiny speck of rust or dirt can cause trouble in the fuel injection system. So Amoco adds 5 protective ingredients to Premier to assure the same consistently high performance day after day.

Anti-rust Control. Injectors and other fuel system parts work better, last longer.

Stabilizer. Inhibits the formation of gum and varnish in the fuel even during long storage.

Metal Deactivator. Inhibits oxidation of fuel to minimize varnish and gum formation caused by contact with copper, brass, and other metals — helps keep engines clean and smoke-free.

Dispersant. Prevents clustering of solid contaminants to reduce power loss, filter clogging and engine wear.

Demulsifier. Improves the fuel's ability to shed water...reduces sputtering, stalling, power loss, rusting and filter plugging.

There's only one way we can guarantee Premier power when you need it: Let us put it in your storage tank now.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

Two Graves County FFA Chapters Claim Awards

Two Future Farmers of America chapters from Graves County went home with the bulk of the awards Tuesday as the annual FFA Purchase Federation Day contests were held at Murray State University.

The Lowes High School chapter, of which Floyd Stettvet and Edward Wright are the advisors, barely nosed out the Farmington chapter for the most top honors won, taking 24 superior awards, including eight first-place honors, and six excellent ratings.

The Farmington chapter, of which Kenneth Galloway is the advisor, also took 24 superior ratings, eight first-place winners and one excellent award. Its laurels also included perhaps the most sought-after award of the event, that of conducting a chapter meeting, as well as the best scrapbook and the best secretary's book.

Making up the Farmington chapter meeting team were Richard Tremblay, Don Brittain, Joseph Waggoner, Al Colley, Tim Johnson, Teddy Newsom, Judy Smith, Jean Ann Willford, Tammy Hengy, Jenny Riley and Connie Perkins.

The Calloway County chapter, of which Larry Gilbert, Jamie Potts and Eugene Chaney are the advisors, and the Reidland chapter, of which Wayne Ezell is the advisor, both took 19 of the superior ratings given. The Calloway Countians' superiors included nine first-place winners as well as five excellent ratings, while the Reidland chapter won five first-place awards and received six excellent ratings.

Entered in 31 of the event's 36 contests, the Lowes chapter's representatives took these first-place awards: Donald Spicer, creed speaking; Calvin Gibbs, agricultural electrification; Rodney Cude, fish and wildlife; Kenneth Wilson, soil and water management; Bill Sears, fruit and-or vegetable production; Barry Leonard, swine; and Chester Wilson, placement in agricultural processing.

Leonard also won the event's newest event, that of extemporaneous speaking.

The Farmington chapter, competing in 25 events, took these first-place awards: Jean Ann Willford, impromptu speaking on beef; Al Colley, impromptu speaking on swine; Don Brittain, diversified livestock production; and Jeff Smith, winning two, agricultural mechanics and placement in agricultural sales and service, all in addition to the three chapter-wide awards it took.

The nine Calloway Countians winning first-place ratings were: Ricky Cunningham, public speaking; Meleah Paschall, impromptu speaking on horticulture; Tripp Furches, soybeans; Jimmy Joe Hale, beef production; Jimmy Stone, strawberries; Richard Smotherman, dark fired tobacco; Terry Paschall, air cured tobacco; and Mike Rogers, winning in dairy production and burley tobacco.

Reidland's first-place winners included: Tom Hines in the American Institute Cooperative (AIC) contest; Bentley Fuller, home improvement; Charles Byerly, horse proficiency; Michelle Barnes, poultry production; and Stephen J. Roberson, nursery operation.

Other first-place winners and their chapters included: Sedalia: Derek Towery, impromptu speaking on dairy. Lone Oak: Stephanie Cates, impromptu speaking on horse; Terry C. Dukes, placement in agriculture production; and the best treasurer's book.

Ballard County: Darren Hunt, hay crops. Symsonia: Kenneth McGary, corn; and Donald Farmer, forest management. Heath: George Jones, crop production; James Shaughnessy, sheep production; and the chapter music contest.

Fulton County: Linda Workman, horticulture; and Arthur Cason, turf and landscape management.

Marshall County: Benny Pryor, individual music.

Other chapters participating included: Carlisle County, Fancy Farm, Wingo, Hickman County, North and South Marshall Junior Highs, and Paducah Tilghman.

More than 400 high school and junior high students in 17 West Kentucky chapters participated in the day-long events, the winners of which will represent the federation's First Region in the state-wide contests in June.

Expansion Favored On Farm Exports

CHICAGO — An overwhelming 95 per cent of those responding to a recent survey in International Harvester's Farm Forum magazine were in favor of expanding exports of U.S. farm products, as opposed to only 5 per cent who were not.

The survey concerning international markets was issued in the company's quarterly publication, reaching over one million farmers, agri-businessmen and agri-influentials. (The following totals occasionally don't add up to 100 per cent because of multiple responses or because some did not answer every question.)

Listing those farmers who benefit most from expanded farm exports, 72.2 per cent responded that all farmers benefit from exports, while others answered:

- Cash grain farmers, 26.8 per cent.
- Those with diversified operations, 5 per cent.
- Specialty crop farmers, 2.6 per cent.
- Livestock farmers, 1.2 per cent.
- Exports don't really help farmers, 3.4 per cent.

More respondents, 60.8 per cent felt exports of farm products improve the prices they receive a great deal, while 33 per cent answered they only improve somewhat, and 4 per cent responded very little or not at all.

Respondents rated the role the U.S. government should play in the international marketplace as follows:

- The government should help promote U.S. farm products, 52.6 per cent.
- The government should negotiate better trade agreements, 40.0 per cent.
- The government should stay out of the international marketplace, 21.8 per cent.
- The government should provide more credit to nations who want to buy our farm products, 12.8 per cent.
- The government should establish reserves to make sure we will be a steady supplier, 10.4 per cent.

The U.S. should try to negotiate trade agreements with more countries in order to stabilize the export markets according to 83.8 per cent of the respondents, while 13 per cent felt they should not negotiate these agreements.

According to 58.6 per cent of the respondents, the U.S. needs to guarantee no more embargoes in order to improve its reputation as a steady supplier. But 47.8 per cent responded we need government support in preventing dock strikes; 28.2 per cent we need to establish some sort of reserve to assure steady supplies in short crop years and 6.2 per cent answered that we need to produce more so we have more to sell.

The U.S. should not subsidize exports of farm products in order to increase its market share, according to 49.4 per cent of the respondents, while 18 per cent felt the U.S. should subsidize exports and 33.6 per cent answered only if other countries subsidize exports.

Responses were varied to the question, how do you feel about imports of agricultural products:

- Imports are okay as long as they meet the same quality standards as the products we produce, 37.6 per cent.
- We have to accept imports if we expect to export more of our farm products, 27.6 per cent.
- We should only import when we don't produce enough for our own needs, 27.6 per cent.
- Imports are okay as long as a foreign government isn't subsidizing them, 21.0 per cent.
- We should only import products we don't produce in the U.S., 14.4 per cent.
- We should not import any farm products, 3.8 per cent.

Grassy Tetany Harmful During Spring Season

In step with the arrival of spring is the treacherous grass tetany season, caution scientists at the Murray State University Veterinary Diagnostic and Research Center at Hopkinsville.

"Cattle, shut up all winter on hay, are eager for the taste of new grass," said Dr. Charles E. Herren, service veterinarian at the center. "These new shoots of grass are deficient in the mineral magnesium and when eaten can cause an imbalance in the animal's system which can result in the typical convulsions of grass tetany."

Since the disease is more common in cows nursing calves it makes the spring season doubly dangerous, Herren said, adding that attacks of grass tetany can be brought on by the act of milking or adverse weather conditions.

Occasionally cattle are found dead, but generally grass tetany symptoms can be detected early by the cattleman or farmer, he went on. "Acutely affected cattle bellow, run blindly and then fall down in a convulsion with paddling of the legs," he said.

"If a cow is seen before the convulsions begin she may appear nervous stiff and excitable." Stockmen are cautioned to approach an affected cow cautiously because they sometimes will attack moving objects, he said. Treatment of grass tetany usually is successful provided a veterinarian is called as soon as its symptoms are noticed.

Prevention of grass tetany can be accomplished by feeding excess magnesium in the form of magnesium oxide or magnesium sulfate, Herren said, pointing out that magnesium alloy "bullets" have been developed to permit a slow release of the mineral in the cow's rumen.

By close observation, the taking of recommended precautionary measures and consultation with the local veterinarian, cattlemen could greatly reduce losses caused by this livestock disease, Herren noted.

Tobacco Quotas Up To 1981 Ok'd By Referendums

Preliminary returns from mail referendums February 20-23 show tobacco growers have approved marketing quotas for the 1979, 1980, and 1981 crops of fire-cured and dark air-cured tobaccos.

Telephone returns from states indicate marketing quotas were approved by 94.8 percent of the 9,885 voters in the fire-cured tobacco referendum and 93.9 percent of the 10,303 voters in the dark air-cured tobacco referendum.

Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said that since marketing quotas were approved by more than the necessary two-thirds of those voting in each referendum, they will continue in effect for the 1979, 1980, and 1981 crops of these tobaccos.

Price support loans will be available on the next three crops. Any tobacco produced in excess of farm acreage allotment will be subject to a marketing penalty of 75 percent of the average market price for the previous marketing year.

Greater Activity Expected Farmer ASCS Participation

The Calloway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), began accepting applications for the 1979 wheat and feed grain program on February 15. O. L. Cain, Chairperson of the ASC committee, said participation thus far has been LIGHT, but greater activity is expected during the next few weeks.

Program participation is voluntary. However, farmers with setaside crops of barley, corn, grain sorghum, or wheat must file their intentions to participate during the sign-up period to be eligible for deficiency and disaster payment protection for these crops, as well as rice and upland cotton, and be eligible for price support loans on all crops except sugar.

"All producers planting wheat and-or feed grains for harvest in 1979 on farms with a normal crop acreage are eligible to participate," Cain said. Participating farmers agree to take out of production one acre for every ten planted in 1979 to corn and sorghum and two acres for every ten planted to wheat and barley for grain. Corn and grain sorghum voluntary diversion payments may be earned when farmers sign up to take an additional acre out of production for every ten acres planted.

Farmers who may be undecided about the program or have questions are encouraged to contact the ASCS office or one of the ASC committee persons for more information.

Cain said the program is designed to prevent an excessive buildup of wheat and feed grain stocks which causes low market prices.

Agents Can No Longer Store Carryover Tobacco

Beginning with the 1979 crop, marketing agents are no longer permitted to store carryover tobacco under the burley tobacco program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said the previous carryover program may have stimulated excess tobacco production and could have some effect on the price support program.

Fitzgerald also announced three other changes in the burley tobacco program, including:

1. Producers are now required to file reports of tobacco on hand at the end of the marketing season;
2. Supplemental reports are now required from dealers and buyers that reflect tobacco acquired by them and not previously reported in their seasonal reports, due April 1 for burley;
3. With some exceptions, a farm may NOT transfer a farm quota both to the farm and from it in the same year.

Plan for wet weather.

When the weather just won't cooperate you need the PTO-driven Lely-Roterra®. It enables you to begin preparation of your seedbeds at almost the moment you can drive your tractor without getting stuck.

Millions of acres have tested the working principle of the Roterra® during good and bad weather and in all types of soils. Think about the timeliness and flexibility you will have during critical planting periods. You'll get faster germination, a better crop start, a consistent stand and improved yields.

You'll have even greater timeliness and flexibility when you spray, till, incorporate and plant in the same trip with a Lely-STIP System™. It will increase the planting capacity of your current tractor and planter four times.

See a demonstration of the Lely-Roterra® and the Lely-STIP System™. You'll learn to save trips and bank on the results.

Spring Has Sprung, And The MSU Baseball Team Is Winning Once Again

Spring arrived on March 21 this year, as always, and something else happened this year, as always — at least as it has for the past 21 years.

It's a winning Murray State baseball team. Coach Johnny Reagan is in his 22nd year as coach, and, by no coincidence, the 'Breds are off to another fast start.

They're already 8-1 as they prepare for a road game at Arkansas State Tuesday. Today's schedule doubleheader against Iowa State and Northwestern at Reagan Field was cancelled because of wet grounds.

Though Reagan's current team is winning at a rapid clip, it has a long way to go to equal or better a few of his past squads. In 1963, Murray finished 27-4, and in 1975, it piled up its most wins ever in running to a 40-7 slate.

The latter team was also the first Ohio Valley Conference squad to ever land an NCAA berth. That came after Reagan had directed his team to a ninth OVC championship.

Based on past Reagan seasons, a 'Breds team is just about due for another league title. Only once, from 1966-1969, has a Reagan-coached Murray team gone more than three straight years without a conference championship.

Reagan points to pitching as his current team's strength. "It's been strong, as we expected, and our hitting has been spotty. We've expected that, too," Reagan said recently.

Tony Wilson
Sports Editor

The mound corps is headed by senior left-hander Andy Rice, who was 5-3 with a 1.94 earned run average last season. Also back is Mark Riggins, 4-3 last year. Those three losses were the first ever as a Thoroughbred for Riggins, now a senior.

The regular starting lineup appears solid, too. Back is second baseman Doran Perdue, a .312 hitter in 1978, third baseman Robin Courtney (.344), first baseman Bill Wagoner (.330) and shortstop Steve Sencibaugh.

Sencibaugh was hampered by arm problems last season and finished with only a .225 mark at the plate.

In centerfield is Tony Threatt, a Paducah native, who led the squad in home runs (9) last year. Greg Tooley (.273 with 26 runs

Darrell Niswonger hit a solid .278 last season and is a spot starter at the designated hitter and outfield spot.

All of the above personnel seem to make an improvement on last year's 26-18 record a good bet.

The fact that not a single member of the Murray High boys basketball team was named to the All-Purchase squad is a tribute, I think, to the balance of the Tiger team.

The All-Purchase squad, which appeared in the Paducah Sun Sunday, is selected by a vote of First Region coaches.

The Tigers finished 14-10, won the Fourth District title and were one of only two First Region teams to defeat Mayfield, the eventual regional champion. And the loss Murray High suffered to the Cardinals came in overtime.

The six players that all started at least part of the Reagan in the 'Breds' dugout.

time averaged from seven to 15 points a game. Howard Boone, a 6-5 senior, averaged 15 points, followed by Jeff Kursave, 11.6; Mike Bradshaw, 11.0; Nick Swift, 10.0; Ed Harcourt, 9.0; and Brad Taylor, 6.6.

All of the above, with the exception of Taylor, finished as the team's high scorer in at least one game. Taylor had season highs of 13 points against Marshall County twice.

It's Indiana State Against Michigan St. For NCAA Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

SALT LAKE CITY — This is Larry Bird's last shot, and he hopes to make it his best.

"We're a bunch of guys who have stayed together," says Indiana State's grim superstar, "and I feel we can win this championship."

Tonight is the night that Bird and his Indiana State playmates have waited for all season — the finals of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

And it surely stacks up as a storybook ending to the 1978-79 college season, pitting Bird's top-ranked Sycamores against the fourth-ranked Michigan State Spartans, a couple of high-rolling teams dominated by three of the finest players in the game.

Both teams have players with extremely tall profiles in the high-flying Bird and the gifted leading men from Michigan State, Earvin "Magic" Johnson and Greg Kelser.

And both teams have been playing some of their best basketball of the year, although Indiana State has had a couple of close calls of late in this tournament.

The Sycamores, virtual unknowns at the start of the season, made a name for themselves despite criticism that they played a "soft-touch" schedule.

Riding Bird's coattails, the Missouri Valley Conference champions had a tough time proving themselves and had to win all 33 of their games, including a two-point decision over Arkansas in the Midwest finals and a two-point victory over DePaul in the national semifinals Saturday.

The Spartans, meanwhile, struggled at the start of the season, losing half of their first eight Big Ten games. It was after an embarrassing 18-point loss to conference doormat Northwestern that Jud Heathcote's team straightened itself out.

"If any loss probably helped us, it was the Northwestern loss," Kelser said Sunday at a pregame news conference. "It was early in the season and we had a chance to do things."

The Spartans didn't rest until they had a bid to the NCAA tournament sewed up. And they didn't let up after they were in the Midwest

Regionals — overwhelming Lamar, Louisiana State, Notre Dame and Penn and accumulating a 25-6 record en route to the national finals.

The championship game is a publicity man's delight — matching two of the game's best players in Bird and Johnson.

"I could not believe The Bird," said Heathcote after watching him score 35 points, hand out nine assists and grab 16 rebounds while leading Indiana State's 76-74 victory over stubborn DePaul.

Johnson was just as magical in Michigan State's 101-67 embarrassment of Penn's punchless Ivy Leaguers with 29 points, 10 assists and 10 rebounds.

Racer Netters Still Unbeaten

The Murray State men's tennis team, a 7-2 victor over Indiana State in Terre Haute Saturday, went for its sixth win without a defeat today against Bradley at the MSU tennis complex.

The Racers continue their homestand Tuesday by hosting Memphis State. Both matches are at 2:30 p.m.

Terje Persson squeezed out a 6-1, 6-7, 7-6 triumph over Indiana State's Tom Siskpay at No. 1 singles, while Chris Leonard beat Jeff Weber 7-5, 6-4 at No. 2.

Roger Berthiaume stopped

Bob Hardy 6-3, 7-5 at No. 4, Mike Costigan beat Dirk Davis 6-4, 6-3 at No. 5 and Steve Willie overwhelmed Fred Norman 6-2, 6-1 at No. 6.

The only Murray singles loss came at No. 3, where the Sycamores' Tim Capulong defeated Finn Swarting 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In doubles, Persson and Leonard beat Siskpay and Capulong 6-4, 6-3 at No. 1, and Berthiaume and Willie defeated Davis and Norman 7-6, 6-4. The Racers' No. 3 squad of Costigan and Swarting fell to Weber and Hardy 5-7, 6-4, 7-6.

Coaches Admit Point-Shaving Scandals Are Still A Possibility

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

SALT LAKE CITY — Are point-shaving scandals like those that rocked college basketball in the early 1950s and 60s about to inflame the nation's sports pages once more?

Choosing their words carefully, a number of coaches interviewed by The Associated Press admitted that they have seen signs and heard whispers that won't let them answer a definite, "No."

"It's a very real danger," said Mississippi State Coach Jim Hatfield. "I've heard of rumors involving players and officials."

"You hear rumors," said Harvard Coach Frank McLaughlin. "And sometimes you see some strange calls at the end of games."

Point-shaving occurs when a player, coach or official — anyone who could influence the outcome of a game — acts to keep the favored team from winning by the margin provided in the "official line" made by odds-makers. If team "A" is favored to beat team "B" by 12 points but outscore the underdog by 11 or fewer, gamblers betting on team "B" collect money.

And they collect big money if they're assured of the outcome.

At its convention in January, the NCAA voted not to issue press credentials to its championship events to so-called "tout sheets," but even the NCAA agreed that was merely a recognition of the problem, not the solution. Basketball is particularly susceptible to tampering because one player or official can exert a major impact on the game.

"The kids are very vulnerable" to blandishments from well-heeled gamblers, said Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds. "We bring in an FBI agent at the start of every season to talk to our kids about the dangers."

"We've got to do something to protect the game and the kids," said McLaughlin, a former assistant at Notre Dame.

The extent of gambling interest in college basketball was driven home to McLaughlin this past season.

"Somebody called and wanted to know why our game the next day had been taken off the board. I had no idea, but I found out just before tipoff the other team's best player was out with an injured foot. Here I was trying to prepare my team for the game and the gamblers had more information than I did."

Brewer Captures Marathon

CINCINNATI — Martyn Brewer, a former member of the Murray State track team, defeated 4,800 runners and 30-degree temperatures to win the Cincinnati Heart Association Mini-Marathon Sunday, running the 9.3-mile course in 45:50.

A senior at Murray, Brewer, 22, is a native of Chemsford, Essex, England.

Duane Gaston of Richmond, Ky., actually finished 34 seconds faster than Brewer but was disqualified after it was learned he ran in the wrong heat.

The route ran through downtown Cincinnati.

MSU Tracksters Whip Governors, SIU-Edwardsville

The Murray State men's track team used its strength in the middle and long distance races and a strong performance from Stan Simmons in the field events to win a triangular meet at Roy Stewart Stadium Saturday.

The Racers compiled 76 points to outdistance Austin Peay (71) and SIU-Edwardsville (31).

David Warren, a sophomore from Essex, England, won the 1500 meters for Murray in 3:55.7 and placed second behind teammate Pat Chimes in the 800 meters with a 1:57.1 clocking. Chimes finished in 1:51.1.

Simmons won the shot put with a heave of 43-feet, one-fourth inch and finished second in the discus with a mark of 133-feet, eight inches.

Other firsts for the Racers were Mitch Tippen in the 200-yard dash (22.9) and Jerry Odlin in the 5000 meters (14:52).

The results:

Navratilova Takes Tour Title

By CHRISTY BARBEE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — There may still be skeptics, and Chris Evert's slump throws in a hitch, but Martina Navratilova has no doubts.

"This is a new year and I'm No. 1. I have won five tournaments and twice as much money as anybody," the 22-year-old left-hander said Sunday after beating Tracy Austin 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 in the final of the year's first big tennis championship for women, the $275,000 winter-tour finale.

"People are saying, 'Well, Chris is getting married, so it doesn't count.' But as far as I'm concerned, I'm still No. 1 for this year."

Navratilova won four of seven events she entered on the 11-tournament circuit. And although she was just behind Evert in last month's computer rankings (which figure in results for the previous 12 months), Navratilova dominated the tour points standings and money earnings list all winter.

Evert, who sat out most of the 1978 tour, allowing Navratilova to become the leader, played six tournaments this season but only won two. She played dismally here, losing to Austin in the preliminary rounds, and to Dianne Fromholtz.

The Martina who rules the roost is a refined and matured version of the pouting, sometimes wretched woman who so often gave up her game to her emotions a few years ago, after she defected to the United States from Czechoslovakia.

The proof of that showed in the second set against Austin. Her service lagged and her

Action Is Wild In NBA's West

By the Associated Press

Suddenly it's the wild, wild West in the National Basketball Association with just 6½ games separating the top seven teams, one of which won't make the playoffs.

Seattle has the best mark in the conference, 46-27, following Sunday's 111-101 victory over Kansas City. But the other six teams are bunched within 4½ games of each other, and a dogfight is shaping up for the final two weeks of the regular season.

The Kings have led the Midwest Division for nearly the entire season, but injuries to Tom Burleson and Scott Wedman sent them into a late-season slump. The Denver Nuggets climbed to within one-half game of Kansas City by rallying to beat the Los Angeles Lakers 123-113 Sunday.

Portland, which lost to Milwaukee 122-110 in overtime Sunday night, now finds itself the odd team out in the West race.

Report Says Brown To Be UCLA Coach

By the Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — UCLA has hired Larry Brown, former Denver Nuggets coach, to succeed Gary Cunningham as the Bruins' basketball coach, the Los Angeles Times reported in today's editions.

Brown, 38, has had no previous college coaching experience, but has been successful in the pro ranks with teams in the American Basketball Association and National Basketball Association.

UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan had no comment on the report that Brown had been hired Sunday after an interview Saturday. An official announcement is expected Wednesday or Thursday, the newspaper said.

Athletic publicity director Vic Kelley said today he had no knowledge whether Brown had been hired.

Cunningham resigned unexpectedly last week, after two years in which his teams increased the string of UCLA conference championships to 13, but twice lost in the Western regional finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament. He is reported to be seeking a top administrative position at UCLA.

Wadkins Cites His Goal After Winning Sawgrass

By the Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Lanny Wadkins, the first man to master Sawgrass, has a simple goal for the rest of the golf season.

"I'd just like to keep on winning," Wadkins said after scrambling through 45 mph winds to a convincing, 5-shot victory Sunday in the Tournament Players Championship.

"I'm off to a great start for the year. I've got my game where I want it. I just want to keep on trucking."

And Wadkins, the only double winner of the season and now topping the season's moneywinning list, is going to give himself every opportunity to do so. He's playing in all but two tournaments through the U.S. Open in June.

He collected $72,000 from the total purse of $440,000 after his spectacular effort in the ambitious event that is billed as the annual championship of golf's touring pros. He now has $134,948 for the year and has stamped himself a prime candidate for the Masters, two weeks away.

"I'll worry about the Masters when I get there," Wadkins said. "Right now I'm just looking ahead to next week."

Wadkins built a 3-shot lead with opening rounds of 67-68 in the TPC, was able to maintain

Old Dominion Captures AIAW National Crown

By the Associated Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Old Dominion's Inge Nissen and Louisiana Tech's Elinor Griffin looked as if they would play to a standoff in the national championship game billed as a battle of the two premier centers in women's college basketball.

But the 24-year-old Nissen, an eight-year veteran of international play, subdued Griffin in the second half Sunday and top-ranked Old Dominion posted a 75-65 victory over the No. 2 Lady Techsters. The triumph gave the AIAW national championship to the Lady Monarchs, an early season favorite for the crown.

"I was apprehensive about playing her," said the lithe Nissen, who, like Griffin, stands 6-foot-5. "I was surprised I could control her in the second half."

Nissen drilled in 22 points and guard Nancy Lieberman added 20 as Old Dominion held Griffin to only two points in the second half. Griffin scored 14 points in the first half, and Nissen said she was forced to adjust her defensive strategy.

"I made that decision when she scored for about the eighth time," Nissen said with a wry smile. "I was fronting her and she was shooting over me. I started playing behind her and I was able to start blocking some shots."

It's Back College Basketball, Once Thought To Be Dead, Is Definitely Alive

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Garland zipped a jump shot through the basket, capping an 11-point comeback that sent DePaul into a tie with favored Indiana State, and the University of Utah's Special Events Center exploded into a frenzy of wild excitement.

A packed 15,410 spectators leaped from their red-colored seats. A priest began waving a program frantically. A grandmotherly woman was jumping up and down. She was the wife of DePaul's revered 65-year-old coach, Ray Meyer.

People waved pom poms. Some threw streams of colored paper out of the stands. Cheerleaders did flip flops. The din was deafening.

Will Grimsley

This was just one of the scenes that marked the NCAA basketball championships, drawing to a close tonight with a match between No. 1, unbeaten Indiana State and tough, poised Michigan State.

College basketball is back.

It has weathered the ignominy of the game-shaving scandals of the early 1950s and 1960s, which tainted dozens of the nation's finest institutions, destroyed All-America players and sent violators to jail. It has overcome the threat of being smothered by the pro National Basketball Association with its million-dollar paychecks and being sport now has turned full cycle. Interest generally this past season reached perhaps its highest peak ever, stoked by a banner crop of individual talents and fluctuating fortunes of major teams.

Upsets abounded. The No. 1 ranking was passed around like a hot flat iron. Nobody could get bored.

The NCAA championship now must be rated one of the half-dozen top sports spectacles, gaining a place alongside football's Super Bowl, the World Series in baseball, the Kentucky Derby, Indianapolis 500 and Masters golf.

While college basketball is booming, the pros have been sagging in public appeal.

"I think people generally are getting fed up with the pros in all sports and are turning more to the amateurs," said Don Ohlmeyer, executive producer for NBC Sports, which is airing the NCAA final. "They read about these half-million-dollar salaries and then they turn the dial and get a ho hum performance. The pros don't generate the excitement that the college games do."

"The pros are too bland, too stylized and predictable. People like human drama — kids playing with a bandaged leg, as Curtis Watkins did for DePaul. They enjoy the 'Win one for the Gipper' stuff."

What is happening to the NBA?

There are many negative aspects to the pro game. Expansion has drained the league of talent. So high class competition has largely disappeared. The season of 82 games is too long. Players get bored, and the games become meaningless until the final stage of the playoffs. Ticket prices are exorbitant.

Ricky Hale To Sing In State Chorus

Ricky C. Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Hale and a senior at Calloway County High School, has been chosen by audition to participate in the 1979 Kentucky All-State Chorus on March 29-31 in Louisville.

The All-State Chorus, sponsored by the Kentucky

Ricky C. Hale

Music Educators Association, is comprised of select students from Kentucky high schools. Students will spend three days at the Hyatt Regency Center rehearsing with conductor John Clark of the University of New Mexico.

The All-State Chorus concert will be presented for the KMEA Convention at the general session at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, March 30.

Hale, a tenor, is a member of the CCHS Mixed Chorus, directed by Lavaughn R. Wells. In May, the Mixed Chorus will participate in the Choral Festival held at Six Flags Over Mid-America in St. Louis.

He sings in the Columbia Blues swing ensemble and has been a member of the Quad-State Choral Festival. For the past three years he has participated in the KMEA solo and ensemble contest and the First District Choral Festival.

NEW YORK (AP) — A suitcase on its way to the belly of an airliner carrying 181 people blew up and two New Jersey buildings were bombed in what was allegedly a new terrorist assault by anti-Castro Cubans.

The blasts Sunday night were the responsibility of an anti-Castro group known as Omega 7, according to a telephone call received by The Associated Press. Four baggage handlers suffered minor injuries from the blast.

GREAT LAKES NAVAL TRAINING STATION, ILL. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood came home accused as a traitor, speaking with an accent and as a stranger to his loved ones. But he cried at returning to the United States.

On advice from his attorney, Garwood refused comment Sunday on preliminary charges that he deserted in time of war.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The most promising new drugs in the war on cancer may prove to be as old as the human body itself, three researchers say.

This new generation of natural drugs, most of which are still experimental, have the advantage of being produced normally by the human body, the doctors said Sunday at an American Cancer Society seminar.

Great Egg-Drop To Be Held April 4

The Great Egg-Drop, sponsored by the Baptist Student Union, will be held Wednesday, April 4, at 4 p.m.

All proceeds from the event will go toward the summer mission fund of the BSU.

Two divisions, individual and team, will be featured and trophies will be awarded to the winners of each division.

Entry fees are $1.00 for each individual and 50 cents for each team member. Persons must register by 12 noon Saturday, March 31, at the BSU building, 108 North 15th Street, across from Sparks Hall, Murray State University.

Three eggs will be dropped for each entry by the BSU president from the top of the BSU building. Eggs may be caught in any way with anything, according to Karen Whittington. For information call 753-5771.

sorority. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Schapiro, she played the piano as her talent presentation. She is a music major.

Each of the four runnersup received a trophy. Miss Graham was presented a $100 scholarship, Miss Wathen a $75 scholarship, and Miss Baker and Miss Schapiro a $50 scholarship each.

Each contestant in the pageant appeared before the judges three times — first in evening gowns, then in talent routines, and finally in swimsuits. They were interviewed prior to the pageant.

Other semifinalists were: Cynthia Christie, Portville, N. Y., junior; Lisa Hamby, Owensboro junior; Patty Jackson, Clinton freshman; Nan Jones, Frankfort freshman; Jeanna Meriedeth, Barlow sophomore; and Lisa Slater, Fairview Heights, Ill., junior.

Judges for the pageant were John R. Bohn of Louisville, treasurer of the Miss Kentucky Pageant, Richard Duncan of Louisville, photographer for the Miss Kentucky Pageant and a member of its board of directors, and Marcia Murray Moss of Jackson, Tenn., a former Miss Tennessee.

Roxi Witt, Owensboro junior, was chairman of the pageant, which was sponsored by the Student Activities Board of the Student Government Association. A seven-piece student band under the direction of Tom Vines, Desloge, Mo., junior, provided music for the program.

Accidents Claim 13 Lives Across State

By The Associated Press

Weekend traffic accidents on Kentucky highways claimed 13 lives, state police said today. The deaths raise the state's fatality toll for the year to 168, compared with 110 through the same date in 1978.

A Greenville teen-ager died Sunday night of injuries she received in a single car accident Friday night. State police said Julia Roberts, 15, was a victim of a crash on Kentucky 973 near Rosewood in Muhlenberg County.

An accident near Morehead Sunday night took the life of the 13th weekend traffic victim. Details of the accident were not available early today, state police said.

Variety Show Will Be At North School

A special variety show will be held at the North Calloway Elementary School on Tuesday, March 27, at 7 p.m.

This event, sponsored by the North Parent-Teacher Club, will feature specialty acts by the students, according to Sue Ford, PTC president, who invites the public to attend.

Donaldson, 24, of Artemus, were killed early Sunday when the truck in which they and four other persons were riding plunged into the Cumberland River near Artemus during a high-speed chase with police.

State Police Trooper Harold Bargo said that three other men and a woman in the truck were injured.

Bargo said that troopers were called to the Artemus area to investigate an alleged kidnapping and rape attempt. The truck sped away when troopers arrived and a chase ensued.

Bargo said that the other three men in the truck would be charged with attempted rape, kidnapping and public drunkenness in connection with the incident. The men were identified as Terry Donaldson and Donnie Donaldson, both of Artemus, and Damon Fuson of Williamsburg.

Bargo said the troopers apparently foiled the rape attempt when they arrived on the scene. The woman was later transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington for treatment of injuries.

Kevin Colgan, 17, of Flemingsburg, died Sunday in a two-car crash on Buttermilk Road west of Hillsboro in Fleming County.

Michael Skillion, 25, of Paducah, was killed Sunday in a two-car collision on U.S. 60 in McCracken County near the Ballard County line.

Jefferson County Deputy

Coroner Mike Adams said it would probably be Monday before two Louisville accident victims can be positively identified.

Police said that a man and woman died Saturday on Upper River Road in Louisville when the car in which they were driving went out of control, left the road and caught fire.

Jimmy Alexander, 16, of Providence, was killed Friday in a two-car crash on Main Street in that Webster County town.

Stumping Toward May

This column is designed to report on the activities and positions of the candidates in the various statewide races in this May's primary election. Many of the items contained in this column come directly from the candidate or his or her staff.

Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall will bring her campaign for governor to West Kentucky this week. She is scheduled to be in Marshall, McCracken and Ballard counties today and will speak at the Murray State University Young Democrats Forum in the Racer Room at Roy Stewart Stadium at 7 p.m. tonight.

Tuesday she will campaign in Henderson and Daviess counties and will be in Graves, Carlisle and Calloway counties Wednesday.

Thursday she will visit Hickman and Fulton counties before returning to Calloway County to appear at a fund-raiser bean supper at the Murray Holiday Inn at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Stovall will be in Washington, D. C. all day Friday but will return to Calloway, Trigg, Livingston and Crittenden counties on Saturday.

She will celebrate her birthday Sunday at a birthday party at Commonwealth Convention Center in Louisville.

Bill Phillips, candidate for State Representative from the 5th District, was the featured speaker for the semi-annual meeting of the United Methodist Women, Paris District.

The meeting was held at the Sedalia United Methodist Church Sunday, March 25.

Phillips, a lay speaker for several churches in the district, spoke on the subject of "Total Commitment."

Richard H. Lewis, candidate for lieutenant governor, will be the grand marshal of Sigma Chi's Derby Day parade, which will be held March 31 at 11 a.m. at Murray State University.

Lewis, a graduate of MSU, is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He and his family will ride in the parade and later in the day he will crown the Derby Day queen.

Following the parade, the traditional series of team events will be held on the university campus.

U. S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard, candidate for governor, has announced his campaign schedule for this week which will begin today in Grant,

Sigma Chi Derby Day Set Saturday

A parade at 11 a.m. with Richard Lewis, candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, as grand-marshal will open the 20th annual Sigma Chi Derby Day Saturday, March 31, at Murray State University.

The activities will cap a week-long Sigma Chi Derby Week, beginning today, as proclaimed by Murray Mayor Melvin B. Henley.

Following the parade, the traditional series of team events between sororities and women's residence halls will be held behind Winslow Cafeteria. The teams will compete for events and spirit trophies.

Derby Day was initiated at the University of California in 1930 and has become a tradition at the 172 chapters across the United States.

All proceeds from Derby Day will go to Wallace Village, in Broomfield, Colo., the Sigma Chi service project. The village is a center solely for the treatment and rehabilitation for children with minimal brain damage.

Owen and Henry Counties. Tuesday and Wednesday Hubbard will return to Washington, D. C. and will be in Wolfe, Magoffin, Johnson and Floyd counties on Thursday.

Friday, Hubbard will be in Franklin, Shelby, Jefferson and Fayette counties and Saturday he will campaign in Webster, Union, Livingston and Crittenden counties.

Jerry Alleyne, candidate for superintendent of public instruction in the May primary, filed his official candidacy papers today in Frankfort.

Alleyne, in announcing for the post, said "The office of superintendent should be removed from the political forum and its emphasis redirected to those it should serve ... namely our children."

TAX ASSISTANCE — Students in the department of accounting and finance at Murray State University, along with Beta Alpha Psi professional accounting fraternity, are shown assisting taxpayers in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program. The program, which gives free tax preparation aid for most senior citizens, fixed and low-income families and students, is conducted in Room 108 of the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center on College Farm Road.
